RESPONSE TO PLAINTIFFS'
COMBINED DEMANDS

RICHARD A. CALVAGNO II AND PATRICK
J. KARCHER,

Defendant.

-----X

Defendant RICHARD A. CALVAGNO II, by his attorneys Jason M. Barbara & Associates, P.C., responding to Plaintiff's Combined Demands dated April 1, 2021, states the following upon information and belief.

GENERAL STATEMENTS AND OBJECTIONS

1. All of the General Statements and Objections made herein are applicable to and are hereby incorporated into each and every response to each specific discovery request, and the response to any discovery request is made subject to and without waiver of the General Statements and Objections. The assertion, however, of the General Statements and Objections does not preclude the assertion of additional specific objections.

2. Defendant objects to each and every discovery request to the extent that it seeks information or documents protected against disclosure by the attorney-client privilege, work product doctrine, or other applicable claim of privilege. Defendant does not waive or intend to waive, but rather intends to preserve and is preserving, all available privileges with respect to all information and documents subject thereto. The extent that any information or document which is properly the subject of any such privilege or protection is inadvertently produced in response to these requests, and such production is not intended as, and should not be construed as a waiver of any such privilege or protection.

3. Defendant objects to each and every discovery request to the extent that it seeks information or documents which are not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence.

4. Defendant objects to each and every discovery request to the extent that it purports to require the disclosure of information and/or documentation relating to any entity other than Defendant and/or that related to any policy not identified in Defendant's complaint. Such request is overbroad, unduly burdensome, oppressive and harassing. Moreover, such request is not calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. Defendant further objects on the basis that information and/or documentation pertaining to entities other than Defendant is confidential and proprietary.

5. Defendant objects to each and every discovery request to the extent that it seeks disclosure of opinions, mental impressions, conclusions of legal theories of Defendant or is counsel, consultants, or other representatives.

6. Defendant objects to each and every discovery request to the extent that it purports to require the disclosure of information and/or documentation within the propounding party's knowledge or to which the propounding party has equal or better access on the grounds that each and every request is unduly burdensome, oppressive, harassing and exceeds the scope of any legitimate needs of the propounding party for such discovery.

7. Defendant objects to each and every discovery request to the extent that it purports to require the disclosure of information and/or documentation that is not relevant to this matter and/or not reasonably calculated to lead to the discovery of admissible evidence. By responding to the discovery request, Defendant does not concede that any of the information and/or requested and/or provided is relevant to or admissible in this action. Defendant expressly reserves the right to object to or otherwise challenge the introduction into evidence of any of its responses or portions thereof.

8. Defendant objects to terms that are undefined which would force Defendant to speculate as to the meaning and the information sought.

9. Defendant objects to each and every discovery request to the extent that it seeks more information, imposes greater obligations, and/or requires more by way of a response, production or otherwise, than is required by the Civil Practice Law and Rules, any rule or order of the Court herein, or other applicable law.

10. Each response herein which states that certain documents will be provided or produced is not, and should not be construed as an admission or representation that such documents in fact exist.

11. Defendant's responses are based upon information currently known to Defendant after reasonable inquiry. Defendant reserves the right to amend these responses in accordance with New York's Civil Practice Law and Rules to the extent additional responsive information is obtained during the course of ongoing discovery and investigation.
